

ANTIGUA
AND BARBUDA
The beach is just the beginning...

Summer of 60
CELEBRATING 60 YEARS OF CARNIVAL
DEALS UP TO 60% OFF WHEN TRAVELING TO
ANTIGUA & BARBUDA THIS SUMMER

Caribbean News Now!

Google Custom Search SEARCH ABOUT US CONTACT US

LATEST SPORTS OPINION FEATURES BUSINESS HEALTH TECHNOLOGY TRAVEL WEATHER EDUCATION LETTERS CLIMATE

Today's News

Entertainment News
Immigration News
Legal News
Citizenship-Residency
Caribbean Books
Caribbean Calendars
Caribbean Jobs
Upcoming Events
Donate

Countries/Territories

Jump to your country or territory of interest

Please select... ▾

Community Development

Sustainable Agriculture

Economic Development

Sustainable Energy Technologies

Sustainable Living

Sustainable Building Design

International Development

US News

Discount Coupons 2017

2017 Latest Technology

AdChoices ▾

Advertise with us

Reach our daily visitors from around the Caribbean and throughout the world. Click here for rates and placements.

Contribute

Submit news and opinion for publication

Subscribe

Click here to receive our daily regional news headlines by email.

Archives

News from the Caribbean: Wednesday July 19, 2017

1 Sustainable Energy 2 Current News

Back To Today's News

Commentary: The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development: A different strategy for a different time

Published on July 12, 2017

Email To Friend Print Version

By Alicia Bárcena

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) were adopted two years ago by the 193 member states of the United Nations as a collective and transformative call for action to shift the course of our shared destiny towards a more equal and sustainable development pattern.

Alicia Bárcena is the Executive Secretary of the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC)

Since then, countries have taken significant steps to engage in this new path, as they are fully aware that the agenda calls for a paradigm shift. In Latin America and the Caribbean alone, at least 16 countries have enhanced their institutional frameworks (Argentina, Jamaica and Venezuela, as an example) or created new entities (Mexico, Chile, Aruba and Bahamas, to name a few) to facilitate the implementation of the 2030 agenda.

Countries have also developed frameworks for multi-stakeholder dialogue in order to integrate the SDGs into their national and sub-national development plans, investment and fiscal frameworks. Colombia and Guatemala being a case in point. And countries such as Belize, Costa Rica, St Vincent and the Grenadines and Ecuador have sought innovative ways to integrate the SDGs into their public accounts.

At a global level, 66 countries – that is 1 in 3 member states of the United Nations – will have presented their voluntary national review by July 2017 in the context of the High Level Political Forum (in the case of Latin America and the Caribbean this figure amounts to 14 out of 33 countries, almost 50%). Sixteen other countries have already signed up to do so in 2018.

Moreover, five regional fora on sustainable development have been established as regional platforms to support the implementation, follow-up and review mechanisms for the 2030 Agenda and the Addis Ababa Action Agenda.

For instance, the Forum of the Countries of Latin America and the Caribbean for Sustainable Development held its first session in Mexico City this past April, and gathered close to 800 participants from government, civil society, private sector and other actors to promote peer-learning and share progress and experiences in the implementation of the Agenda and strengthen collaboration and coordination among regional actors.

Also, in order to effectively track the progress towards the implementation of the SDGs and support data-driven decision-making, countries will have to address challenges of collection, disaggregation and dissemination of data and statistics. This implies strengthening the capacities of their national statistics systems and developing data ecosystems to have a comprehensive approach to global indicator frameworks.

► TAKE A LOOK

- How To Fix Your Fatigue \(Do This Every Day\)
- How To Fix Your Fatigue \(Do This Every Day\)

Powered by FEEDNETWORK

Affordable Vacation Trips

Health News Articles

Top Online Games

Best Travel Destinations

Weight Loss Tips

High Paying IT Jobs

AdChoices ▾

CARICOM OAS OECS ACS CELAC ECLAC

Commentary: Whither goeth CARICOM?

Invitation to CARICOM to mediate in Venezuela gets lost in mail

Commentary: The View from Europe: Who will reform CARICOM?

CSME the best response to changes in Europe, says outgoing CARICOM chair

Click here for more CARICOM news...

Other Headlines:

Click here to browse our extensive archives going back to 2004

Also, for the convenience of our readers and the online community generally, we have reproduced the complete Caribbean Net News archives from 2004 to 2010 here.

Climate Change Watch

The Caribbean is especially vulnerable to rising sea levels brought about by global warming. Read the latest news and information here...

Travel

Sunwing introduces new flight service from Toronto to Cayo Largo, Cuba

Anguilla named best Caribbean island in Travel+Leisure World's Best Awards 2017

Falmouth cruise withdrawal a temporary setback, says Jamaica tourism minister

Honduras attracts new cruise lines

Costa Rica tempts couples with the perfect backdrop for a memorable wedding

Barbados pledges continued support for LIAT

Jamaica tourism minister welcomes successful start to rebuild German tourism market

New Miami-BVI air service runs into some turbulence

Jamaica welcomes inaugural Eurowings flight from Cologne-Bonn Germany

Tourism risks being viewed as a preserve of the elite, says Jamaican minister

RSS Feeds

Daily headlines

Click here for headlines by category

Follow us on

 Linkedin

Latin American and Caribbean countries are taking action in this realm and are in the process of developing a regional indicator framework that will measure regional priorities while complementing the global framework.

This progress, paired with unprecedented enthusiasm, commitment and political backing towards the 2030 Agenda for sustainable development are indeed cause for great optimism among those of us who advocate for structural change in the development model of our nations.

However, the economic and political reality in which the 2030 Agenda is being currently implemented is not very encouraging. The global economy has not recovered fully from the 2008 financial crisis and growth in both trade and GDP continue to stagnate at levels much lower than those seen in past decades. Despite progress, inequality is rising.

The increase in the flow of refugees or immigrants in the past couple of years has created tensions in destination countries and is one of the factors contributing to the rise of political parties whose platforms thrive on nationalism, protectionism and xenophobia, straying further and further away from the traditions of tolerance and inclusiveness in democratic societies.

In Latin America and the Caribbean, countries are facing ever increasing demands on ever tighter budgets. Despite the efforts of tax administrations in the region, tax evasion remains rampant (2.4% of GDP for VAT and 4.3% of GDP for income tax, representing a total of US$340 billion in 2015) and illicit flows continue eroding the tax base. The rich do not pay their fair share of taxes and neither do multinationals. Further, tax systems in the region are not progressive because of the high share of general taxes on goods and services in the region's total tax revenues.

Also, private flows have become the main source of financing for Latin American and Caribbean developing countries (FDI represented in the last decade an average of some 52% of private sector financial flows in the region) as well as remittances (which represent 24% of total net private financial flows in the region, exceeding 10% of GDP in some economies of Central America and the Caribbean), while there has been a decline in more traditional forms of financing for development, such as official development assistance (ODA). Indeed, ODA flows currently represent 0.25% of regional GNI, a significant drop from the 0.4% that was the average for the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s.

In this context, the road to the attainment of the 2030 Agenda and its SDGs seems filled with hurdles. But different times require different strategies, and in order to attain our common vision by 2030 we need to continue working – together – in addressing global challenges.

A key challenge of the 2030 Agenda's development financing architecture is to mobilize private resources and channel them towards the SDGs. Private and public resources must therefore be combined to achieve the leverage required to maximize the impact for development. However, public and private flows obey a different logic and respond to different incentives. And domestic resource mobilization is necessary but not sufficient to effectively respond to countries' development needs.

The global context in which mobilization of domestic resources occurs matters. Therefore, an enabling external environment is essential to attain the 2030 Agenda. And this will require a profound change in the means of implementation, including in the global trade system and in the conditions for the transfer of knowledge and technology from developed to developing countries. Also, these efforts should be accompanied with the promotion of new and innovative instruments and mechanisms for financing development.

In sum, the political commitment and actions undertaken to implement the 2030 Agenda in the past two years are a first step in the right direction, but addressing the global imbalances that still affect disproportionately developing countries should be the second.

We need to keep the momentum going and take advantage of the attention this new agenda currently has generated to engage all countries, developed and developing, and all sectors of society to take action that benefits all, thus ensuring real and meaningful progress towards sustainable development.

Reads: 2525

Like 4 people like this. Be the first of your friends.

Tweet

Share

Click here to receive daily news headlines from Caribbean News Now!

Tropical Storm Don forms; storm warning issued for Grenada

Honduras government welcomes investigation into allegations of corruption with dam project

IMPACT Justice trains 100 educators in restorative practices in Jamaica

Caribbean trails global trend in automation

Clandestine immigration channel between Haiti and French Guiana dismantled

Understanding Puerto Rico's struggles with Washington through satire

Forecasters now monitoring two tropical systems

Expansion of private sector to continue in Cuba

Suriname expands foreign policy frontier at Ivory Coast meeting

Invitation to CARICOM to mediate in Venezuela gets lost in mail

Regional Sports:

Sports Commentary: Belize Football League in big trouble

CONCACAF Gold Cup kicks off

'I don't think, I've ever been that nervous!' - Usain Bolt as he finished his final race in Jamaica

Guyana and Suriname score medals at Islamic Solidarity Games in Baku

West Indies Under-19 squad named for tour of South Africa and Zimbabwe

NACAC rejects proposal to rewrite world records

Antigua Bermuda Race gets underway on Friday

Four uncapped players in West Indies Women's squad to ICC Women's World Cup

St Lucia programme tackles lack of opportunities for disabled people in sport

Antigua Sailing Week: A golden year

Caribbean News Now

15,786 likes

Like Page

Share

Be the first of your friends to like this

Latest headlines from TCI News Now!:

The feed providing these headlines is not available.

Back...Comments:

No comments on this topic yet. Be the first one to submit a comment.

Back...

As a result of our comments feature being overtaken in recent weeks by spammers using fake email addresses, producing a large number of bounced verification emails each day, we have reluctantly decided to suspend the comments section until further notice.

Disclaimer

User comments posted on this website are the sole views and opinions of the comment author and are not representative of Caribbean News Now or its staff. Caribbean News Now accepts no liability and will not be held accountable for user comments.

Caribbean News Now reserves the right to remove, edit or censor any comments. Any content that is considered unsuitable, unlawful or offensive, includes personal details, advertises or promotes products, services or websites or repeats previous comments will not be approved.

Before posting, please refer to our Terms of Use and Privacy Policy.

Opinion

Commentary: Waiting to make the 'perfect decision' is the wrong decision

Commentary: The key to Garifuna unity? Garifuna identity

Commentary: Everything can always work out

Commentary: If it happened in Venezuela, it can happen anywhere!

Commentary: Whither goeth CARICOM?

Commentary: The continued speedy and steady degeneration of Dominica's politics

Commentary: The spread of alternative facts: Gonsalves' own timely and infamous version

Commentary: Tourism Matters: Trade shows will play a critical part

Commentary: The Georgetown prison fire: A failure and opportunity for good governance

Commentary: Haiti's fiesta season is in full swing starting next week

Ads by Google

Countries

SDGS

Citizenship by Investment

High End Swiss Rolex Watches Here

Letters

Letter: Public defenders in the United States need support

Letter: Human trafficking, national security and governmental failure

Letter: Today's meeting is for Rowley and PNM benefit, not Trinidad and Tobago

Letter: Terry Forrester: A former public relations officer turned politician

Letter: Vigilante justice NDP-style

Letter: ASH - Affordable Sustainable Homesteads

Letter: Create a new and just society

Poets Corner: Citizen Security

Letter: Disturbing silence from PM on regional disaster

Letter: It's way too hot

Japanese used cars for sale - CardealPage

Loading...