INTRODUCTION

By its resolution 58/220 on economic and technical cooperation among developing countries, adopted in December 2003, the United Nations General Assembly urges developing countries and their partners to intensify South-South and triangular cooperation, as they contribute to the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals. It also urges all relevant United Nations organizations and multilateral institutions to intensify their efforts to effectively mainstream the use of South-South cooperation in the design, formulation and implementation of their regular programmes and to consider increasing allocations of human, technical and financial resources for supporting South-South cooperation initiatives.

In line with the above and pursuant to resolution 611 (XXX), adopted by ECLAC at its thirtieth session in San Juan in 2004, the countries decided to change the name of the Committee on Cooperation among Developing Countries and Regions to Committee on South-South Cooperation and requested the Executive Secretary to modernize the Commission's strategic approaches with respect to international cooperation for development, including South-South, North-South and multilateral cooperation, in accordance with the new mandates and approaches adopted by the General Assembly; intensify activities aimed at incorporating modalities of South-South cooperation into the various areas of the programme of work of the secretariat, especially with regard to the formulation and execution of technical cooperation projects; and continue to strengthen strategic partnerships with donor countries and institutions, both within and outside the region, to increase levels of North-South and South-South cooperation.

The Committee on South-South Cooperation, as a subsidiary body of ECLAC, has held meetings during the sessions of the Commission and adopted a number of resolutions with specific mandates to strengthen South-South cooperation in the region. Therefore, on the occasion of the fortieth anniversary of the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries (BAPA)<sup>1</sup> and in view of the holding of the second High-level United Nations Conference on South-South Cooperation (Buenos Aires, 20–22 March 2019), the present report provides a summary of the agreements and resolutions adopted by the Committee on South-South Cooperation in the period 2014–2021.

Recognizing that South-South cooperation is increasingly critical to bolstering the productive capacities of developing countries and has positive impacts on trade and financial flows, technological capabilities and economic growth, and reiterating the importance of global partnerships,

Bearing in mind that 2019 marked the fortieth anniversary of the adoption of the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries, and that the second High-level United Nations Conference on South-South Cooperation was held in Buenos Aires from 20 to 22 March,

Bearing in mind also the outcome document of the second High-level United Nations Conference on South-South Cooperation,<sup>2</sup> which recognizes that South-South and triangular cooperation contribute to the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and to achieving the overarching goal of eradication of poverty in all its forms and dimensions,

Stressing the need to reinvigorate the United Nations development system in supporting and promoting South-South cooperation and triangular cooperation, aiming at the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development,
