Twenty-ninth session of the Caribbean Development and Cooperation Committee (CDCC) of the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean

Paramaribo, 14 October 2022

PROPOSED PROGRAMME OF WORK FOR 2022

Subprogramme 12: Subregional activities in the Caribbean¹

¹ From the Draft programme of work of the ECLAC system, 2022 (LC/SES.38/8), adopted at thirty-eight session of the Committee of the Whole of ECLAC.

SUBPROGRAMME 12: SUBREGIONAL ACTIVITIES IN THE CARIBBEAN

Objective

The objective of the subprogramme is to strengthen the sustainable development processes in the member States of the Caribbean, by building their institutional and technical capacities to improve their resilience to economic, social and climatic impacts, with expanded cooperation within Latin America and wider engagement with other partners.

Presentation

The countries of the Caribbean face significant challenges that compromise their ability to achieve sustainable development. These include high debt levels which give rise to weak economic growth; finance constraints; declining export capacity; high unemployment (particularly among women and youth); and high vulnerability to natural events and environmental threats. The fundamental challenge is therefore building resilience to surmount these obstacles.

Climate change, rising sea levels and exposure to extreme weather events, particularly tropical cyclones, all continue to present existential challenges to the Caribbean countries. The advent of the COVID-19 pandemic has exacerbated the vulnerability of these small states, given their high exposure to external factors and the undiversified nature of their economies. Measures implemented to curb the spread of the virus have caused significant financial stress to countries already burdened with high debt and debt servicing levels in the subregion. Urgent injection of liquidity is therefore needed to ease the pressure on already narrowed fiscal space, to assist the countries in building resilience to both COVID-19 and the continuing threat of climate related events. The debt swap for climate change adaptation initiative proposed by ECLAC responds to this need, by converting the subregion's debt into a source of investment in resilience, while at the same time reinvigorating growth. The role of technology in the subregion's development is critical and strategies to develop domestic technical capacity will be prioritized. Strengthening of ICT infrastructure has assumed greater importance given the increased reliance on this technology for governance, communication and education at a time when movement has been sharply restricted. The trade policies of member States should be modified to support intraregional and extra-regional trade and investment. Attention will also be given to strategies to assist in the recovery of the tourism industry of the subregion, through innovative approaches. Effort will also be made to harness the skills and resources of the Caribbean diaspora to assist in the economic recovery of the subregion. Economic diversification will be more aggressively pursued through further exploration of COVID-proof business opportunities in the creative industries. Greater attention will also be paid to promoting gender equality, women's empowerment, addressing increasing concerns at gender-based violence and defending the right to decent work.

With respect to the lack of adequate and timely data, priority areas include strengthening infrastructure and expanding capacity for data collection and analysis with regard to data on the environment, the pervasive effect of COVID-19 across all sectors, climate impacts and the informal economy, and the production of gender-disaggregated data, among others. Strategies for the effective use of ICT in the design of public policies and the provision of public services that facilitate effective response to and recovery from the pandemic, especially for persons with disabilities, will also be pursued.

Subregional and national actions will continue to be framed by global platforms that advance sustainable development in SIDS, within the wider context of the 2030 Agenda and the SDGs, with a view to ensuring that activities under the subprogramme continue to support sustainable growth and development in the subregion for both members and associate members of ECLAC. Emphasis will be placed on strengthening the institutional infrastructure of Caribbean States, with a view to enhancing governance and integrated policy planning for attaining the SDGs. Appropriate elements of COVID-19 response will be integrated into all activities as deemed necessary.

Strategy

The ECLAC subregional headquarters for the Caribbean will be responsible for the implementation of the subprogramme, which will focus on the following subject areas: 1. Caribbean development and cooperation; 2. Economic development and integration; 3. ICT for development; 4. Social development; 5. Statistics; and 6. Climate change, SIDS and disaster risk management. Therefore, the main contributions to the 2030 Agenda under this subprogramme will be related to SDGs 3, 5, 8, 9, 11, 13, 14, 15 and 16.

The subregional headquarters will provide technical assistance and advisory services to member States, upon request, and conduct training activities, seminars and workshops for knowledge-sharing and the exchange of best practices and lessons learned. It will work closely with Caribbean development partners — including the Caribbean Community (CARICOM) institutions, other subregional intergovernmental organizations and international donor institutions— and in coordination with the United Nations country teams in the Caribbean to inform policymaking in the subregion, including through the provision of advisory and technical cooperation services.

The strategy is built on five pillars. First, activities under the subprogramme will be implemented in close cooperation with the substantive divisions and other subregional and national offices of ECLAC, in the context of the “Caribbean first” strategy launched by the Commission, and in collaboration with the wider United Nations development system. Second, as the secretariat for the Caribbean Development and Cooperation Committee (CDCC), the Commission will ensure that the work remains relevant to the subregion’s needs. Third, the activities will facilitate the Caribbean’s engagement in the follow-up to global conferences, including the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the SIDS Accelerated Modalities of Action (SAMOA) Pathway. Strategies for COVID-19 response and recovery will be assimilated in these development platforms. Fourth, the multidisciplinary response to the development needs of the countries will include: (i) promoting sound fiscal management, trade and industry development; (ii) promoting wider application of ICT for development; (iii) strengthening the institutional infrastructure and refining the monitoring mechanisms for more effective oversight of SDG implementation; (iv) emphasizing the role of social development, including mainstreaming gender considerations throughout the work under the subprogramme; (v) supporting the integration of the environment, natural resources management and disaster risk reduction measures into national planning; and (vi) strengthening the statistical capacity of Caribbean countries. Special attention will be given to supporting country efforts to secure access to both short- and longer-term resources consistent with their vulnerable status, to support the recovery of Caribbean economies post COVID-19. Finally, and fulfilling its think tank and thought leadership role, the Commission, through the subregional headquarters, will continue to undertake research and analysis and to promote strategies for sustainable development, with special attention given to COVID-19 response and recovery. The visibility of its work will be enhanced through a vibrant outreach programme.

The main beneficiaries under the subprogramme will be government authorities and officials from the region’s countries, civil society entities, academic and private sector institutions, and subregional entities.
